An award winning filmmaker with over 10 years' experience in the film and video production industry.

I work as freelance Director, Shooting PD, Writer and Lecturer. I also run Good Guys Productions Ltd and have produced / directed short film dramas, ads, promos and corporate dramas for brands such as Gillette, Serco, P&G, The Home Office, The Army and College of Policing. My self-penned drama shorts have won awards at the LA short awards, San Francisco Screen Festival and Brighton Cine City as well as broadcast by Sky.

I have a good editorial shooting eye as a Shoot PD with experience in editing and vfx. I have won awards including an RTS Award for Directing and the Sony Pictures USA Make a Movie Comp in 2011. I have won Film Council grant awards including working with Jack Gold. I am a part time senior lecturer for film/tv production at The University of Winchester and am a regular judge for International shorts at the Winchester Short Film Festival. I am currently part of the Directors UK mentorship programme shadowing British TV/Film Drama Director Sam Miller (Fortitude, Relik, Marvel Series, Luther)

INTERESTS

I have travelled inside and outside of my job. Some of these extended trips have shaped who I am, most notably spending time working in India, Nepal and China.

I enjoy football and skiing and bust stress with boxercise.

I have an interest in history which feeds many film projects as well as art, film and music from punk to soundtrack artists like Clark
